From Azeem Azhar, renowned technology analyst and host of the global tech podcast Exponential View, comes a bold exploration and call-to-arms over the widening gap between AI, automation, and big data--and our ability to deal with its effects We are living in the first exponential age. High-tech innovations are created at a dazzling speed; technological forces we barely understand remake our homes and workplaces; centuries-old tenets of politics and economics are upturned by new technologies. It all points to a world that is getting faster at a dizzying pace. Azeem Azhar knows this better than most. Over the last three decades he has founded companies bought by Amazon and Microsoft, served as the Economist's first ever internet correspondent, and created a leading international tech newsletter and podcast, the Exponential View. Now, Azhar offers a revelatory new model for understanding how technology--especially that of Facebook, Apple, Amazon, Netflix, Google, and Spotify--is changing the world. He roots his analysis in the idea of an "exponential gap," in which technological changes rapidly outpace our society's ability to catch up with them. Azhar shows that this divide explains many problems of our time--from political polarization to ballooning inequality to unchecked corporate power. With stunning clarity of vision, he delves into how the exponential gap is a near-inevitable consequence of the rise of AI, automation, and big data. And he offers a set of policy solutions that can prevent the growing exponential gap from destroying our societies. The result is a wholly new way to think about technology. It will transform your understanding of the economy, politics, and the future.

A look at the German High Command during World War II challenges the myth that the German Generals could have won the war had Hitler not interfered, and maps out the history and the personalities of the German Command Structure.

Get ready to wander through the forest, meet five special little monsters, and discover lots of forest friends along the way. Enchanting illustrations, fantastic pop-ups, and surprise flaps ensure this monster board book will delight and excite preschoolers. Watch Millie the monster show off her building skills and make a magnificent den in the forest, then take a peek behind the flaps to find out how her animal friends build cosy homes of their own. Meet Marvin the monster as he faces his fear of the dark, learns about the moon, and discovers amazing animals that come awake at night. Follow the splash splash sounds to meet Thunder the monster jumping in muddy puddles, he's loud and lively and loves exploring the forest and finding out how the rain helps the trees and flowers grow big and strong. With fact-filled, read-aloud text that builds knowledge of nature, as well introducing children to a world of adorable monster characters to love and learn about, young children will love turning the pages and journeying through the natural world with their new monster friends. I Love My Monster is the perfect way to teach children about nature and about how each of us is special in our own way. It is part of a series of early learning pop-up books - each one about something children adore.
