Alzheimer's disease is a growing public health crisis. According to the Alzheimer's Association, there are 5.4 million victims of this disease; by 2050, there will be close to 15 million people who suffer from this debilitating disorder of memory, thinking, personality, and functioning. The disease profoundly affects immediate family members, close friends, and neighbors. These people - the Alzheimer's family - undergo tremendous psychological and emotional change as they witness the cruel and relentless progression of the disease in their loved one. Incorporating over thirty years of experience with Alzheimer's patients and their families with current medical knowledge, the authors chart the complex emotional journey of the Alzheimer's family from the onset of the disease through the death of the loved one. They discuss the anger that rises in the face of discordant views of the disease, the defenses that emerge when family members are unwilling to accept a dementia diagnosis, and the common emotions of anxiety, guilt, anger, and shame. They focus especially on grief as the core response to losing a loved one to dementia, and describe the difficult processes of adaptation and acceptance, which lead to personal growth. Final chapters emphasize the importance of establishing a care community and how to understand and cope with personal stress. This volume will be useful to medical professionals and ordinary people close to or caring for a person with dementia.

Rocking Your World: The Emotional Journey into Critical Discourses is an introductory text that emerged from the belief that we often learn best through personal narrative and story. This collection of real stories connects critical theory and critical pedagogy with personal transformation.

Parenthood transforms you. Even before this crisis, you may have experienced a wide range of feelings triggered by pregnancy, birth, and welcoming a new baby. The NICU experience challenges your emotional coping, your developing parental identity, your relationship skills, and your ability to adjust.Intensive Parenting explores the emotions of parenting in the neonatal intensive care unit, from in-hospital through issues and concerns after the child is home. Deboral L. Davis and Mara Tesler Stein describe and affirm the wide range of experiences and emotional reactions that occur in the NICU and offer strategies for parents coping with their baby's condition and hospitalization.

Dealing with childhood trauma which often spills into adulthood is something many of us try to overcome on a daily basis. For some, this trauma leads to depression, substance abuse, domestic violence, a life of self-loathing, and co-dependency.This book is an honest account of one woman's journey to overcoming the trauma she endured as a child which ultimately led to co-dependency in her adult life leaving her feeling worthless. The story gives hope and steps to overcoming self-hatred and a way of feeling comfortable in one's own skin. It sheds light on how to learn to truly love yourself and becoming whole again. Dr. Csilla Batizy Smith is a retired public schoolteacher who touched many lives during the nearly four decades of her teaching career. To this day, she has received numerous testimonials from former students and parents thanking her for the influence she had over their lives.In her private practice, she devoted herself to helping people with anger management, domestic violence, substance abuse, parenting skills, and other issues.She is a devoted mother of two and a doting grandmother of her granddaughter.

Most of these poems are feelings and emotions, which each and every one of us feels at one point or another. These are just a few emotions that were expressed by several people. It was created in hopes of helping people or just to let the public know that they aren't the only ones who feel this way. I just hope that reading these poems will help someone out there. Just remember that we're not the only people who think that we are the only ones going through these difficult times.
