Dissolve 10 mg of a solid (or 1 drop of a liquid) unknown in the minimum amount of bis (2-ethoxyethyl)ether required to give a clear solution (less than 1 mL). Add the unknown solution dropwise, with agitation, to the first test tube. Mix vigorously and allow the solution to stand. Do the same for the known compound.

Three very different individuals. A dark force rising. The chase begins A reserved small town sheriff in pursuit of justice. A beautiful and eccentric technology genius striving to understand. A bon vivant French priest committed to finding answers. A horrific event in a sleepy Gulf Coast town pulls them together and the trio find themselves on a quest for the truth about good and evil, travelling first to Wales and the scene of another shocking nightmare, then on to the killing fields of Syria where the stakes rise even higher. Can these three dissimilar people find answers without driving each other crazy? Can they survive while Middle East factional war rages around them? They need to, because the potential fate of millions hangs on it. "Superbly written, no drags, no slow starts, just hop on board and ride the express to the end." "I loved this book! It's been awhile since I've read a book that hooked me on the first page and sustained my interest right to "The End"! I'm a visual person and this author was able to paint a picture with his words on every page. Awesome!" "The Unknown Element" grabbed me from the very first page. It's one of those books that you don't want to put down but you make yourself do it just because you hate to see it end." "This story is about good vs. evil which, in most circumstances, would not be considered humorous, but because this talented author has such a way with descriptions, I found myself laughing out loud! Often!" "The dynamics between our three main characters is also delightful. Milam gave each one their own distinct personality and I was delighted by the sparks and sparkle of their interaction. Lots of action. Hard to put down (It's 2am and I just finished for instance)." "These are three simple people who come to recognize the power of evil when they see it, find the faith to believe in a greater power, and act on it."

A Postmodern Theology of Ritual Action is a unique work that seeks to explore where we find meaning within ritual and actions within the church. Bridging hermeneutics, philosophy, and postmodern thought, this work seeks to explore how to do theology with the community through conversation. Beginning with the mindset that meaning is already present within ritual action rather than outside it, Best engages the practice of foot washing among the Original Free Will Baptist denomination of eastern North Carolina. Foot washing suggests a new future for theology, a future that models love, service, and acceptance. Incorporating insights gained from conversing with philosophy, theology, and the Original Free Will Baptists, foot washing points toward a future relational practical theology. A Postmodern Theology of Ritual Action is a captivating work that draws from both philosophers and theologians to show that we can learn much by listening to the voices of religious practitioners.

The present volume includes the Proceedings of The 14 th International ' Culture and Power ' Conference, organized by the University of Castilla-La Mancha and held in Ciudad Real, Spain, between 22 and 24 March, 2010 under the auspices of The Iberian Association for Cultural Studies (IBACS). The collection incorporates a selection of the papers presented. The conference revolved around the topic of ' identity ' and ' identification ', which, in the contributions, is explored in various cultural products across a wide range of social and national contexts. Identity and identification processes are examined as interrelated with other social and cultural dimensions. Readings echo a multiplicity of theoretical approaches, the number of issues contemplated being representative of the relevance of identity and identification processes as crucial analytical perspectives for cultural studies today.
